Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

This is a first Office action on the merits for application serial number 10/791,076 filed 03/02/2004. Claims 1-10 are pending.

Claim Objections

1. Claims 1-10 are objected to because of the following informalities:
 - a. Claim 1, lines 5-6, and claim 3, line 2, recite the limitation "said cross arms". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claims.
 - b. Claims 2-6 recite the limitation "cross arm utility pole guarding device" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Examiner suggests amending the claim to read, "cross-armed utility pole guarding device."Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
3. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Regarding claim 8, it is unclear what space the phrase, "wherein the space of said housings" is intended to refer to. Is it the length of the housing, the width of the housing or the space between the housings? For purposes of examination, it is assumed that the space refers to the separating space between the housings.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1, 2, 6, 7 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Raptor Guard 2004.

a. Regarding claims 1 and 7, Raptor Guard 2004 discloses a cross-armed utility pole guard device comprising a housing (Figs.) of non-conductive, non-sticky material (bottom left textbox) having a sloped top to prevent debris from accumulating at the top of said housing (Figs.) and a means for connecting said housing to said utility pole parallel to said cross arms (left Fig.).

b. Regarding claim 2, the housing is a continuous smooth surface (Figs.).

c. Regarding claims 6 and 10, the device further comprises a side of the housing extending down from the top of the housing wherein the sides have spaced holes suitable for screwing the sides of the housing into cross arms (left Fig.; top right textbox.)

6. Claims 1, 3, 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ogawa et al. (Japanese Abstract 09028267A).

a. Regarding claims 1 and 7, Ogawa et al. discloses a cross-armed utility pole guarding device comprising a housing of non-conductive, non-sticky material having a sloped top to prevent debris from accumulating at the top of the housing and a means for connecting the housing to the utility pole parallel to cross arms (Fig. 3).

b. Regarding claim 3 and 8, more than one housing is attached to the cross arms wherein the space separating the housing is less than 4 inches (Fig. 3).

7. Claims 1 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ogawa et al. (Japanese Abstract 09028268A).

a. Regarding claim 1, Ogawa et al. discloses a cross-armed utility pole guarding device comprising a housing of non-conductive, non-sticky material having a sloped top to prevent debris from accumulating at the top of the housing and a means for connecting the housing to the utility pole parallel to the cross arms (Fig. 3).

b. Regarding claim 5, the housing is rounded at the top (Fig. 3).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 4 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Raptor Guard 2004. Regarding claim 4 and 9, Raptor Guard 2004 discloses a housing which is U.V. protected. Raptor Guard 2004 does not disclose that the housing is made of a clear plastic material. However, it would have been a matter of obvious design choice to form the housing out of a clear plastic, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
